"It looks as if only my queen can help me now," thought the king, so he waited until his queen came back from walking. "The ring is very important to me. Could you help me find it?" said the king. "Do not worry, my king. I will find it right now," said the queen.

Soon, the queen walked around the court and among the servants and said, "My king, the ring itself is here in this court on one of the servants. The servant with a straw in his hair stole your ring." The servant with a straw in his hair was so afraid, and he quickly moved his hand over his head. The queen noticed this action of the servant.
