After the English class, Benson felt interested in the ravens and wanted to learn how to tell a raven from a crow. Here is the information he found on the Internet.

American crows are gregarious birds. They often fly and rest in family groups. However, we often see ravens alone or in pairs. Also, a study even shows that ravens can be as smart as dolphins. They are quick to fixing problems. What's more, they are masters of mimicry. They can copy the calls of wolves and foxes. Crows and ravens have similar diets. They eat many kinds of foods like grains, fruits, insects, small animals, eggs or even dead bodies of animals. It means they could be a real problem for farmers.

Child Labor and COVID-19

Everyone knows child labor—children cannot go to school because they need to work for their families. COVID-19 is familiar to everyone, too. However, few people know COVID-19 makes the problem of child labor worse.

Child labor happens to those children from poor families. They need to work for their families to get money for food. Love World help them by saving their countries’ economy. It is making the economy in 98 countries better. In those countries, fewer and fewer children need to make money for their families.

With their help, child labor became less serious two years ago. However, because of COVID-19, a deadly virus, the problem is getting worse and worse. Many school closed and lots of people lose their jobs, so kids need to work again. Care Children’s study shows COVID-19 sent around fifty million people into poverty this year.

Luckily, Donate Kindness gives money to poor families. In a few months, they helped families in China, Malawi, Kenya, Uganda, and Rwanda. They also help those families fight COVID-19. In total, they gave away three million dollars to help fight child labor and the virus. We may see a lot of sad stories every day, but there are always people ready for giving out their hands.
